

Using public rights of way, the walk covers a distance of 14 miles, including some steep slopes on Lazenby Bank, Wilton Wood and Errington Wood.

The 1871 Bridge

Please come equipped for changeable weather and muddy paths with waterproofs and strong walking boots. Allow about six hours for your walk. Please take care when near to roads and keep dogs on leads through farmland, traffic and built-up areas.

This leaflet is designed for use with Outdoor Leisure Map 26. You can look out for waymarkers showing Huntcliff and Eston Nab (both of these viewpoints can be visited by taking short detours from the route).

The route may begin from either end as there are bus services 62 and 71, which run between Normanby and Saltburn. Timetables available on local transport helpline 0870 608 2608. There is no service 71 on Sundays.

This linear walk links Flatts Lane Woodland Country Park and Saltburn Woodland Centre via other sites which are owned and managed by Redcar and Cleveland Borough Council's Countryside section. They are important sites within the Tees Forest.

Huntcliff from Errington Woods

The Tees Forest team is working towards a long term vision of the countryside around Teesside's towns and villages, in partnership with local authorities, private landowners and community groups. The end result will be a well wooded landscape for wildlife, work, recreation and education that benefits the local economy. The result of this action is already apparent and will further develop in years to come.

A WALK BETWEEN FLATTS LANE
WOODLAND COUNTRY PARK
AND
SALTBURN WOODLAND CENTRE

From Flatts Lane Woodland Country Park, situated on the urban-rural fringe, your route passes over moorland and farmland on Eston Moor and Hills and through the woodlands of Wilton, Errington and Hazel Grove. A short coastal section at Saltburn brings you into the Valley Gardens (part of Saltburn's Victorian heritage) before reaching the Woodland Centre at the end of the route.

Points of interest along the walk include Jackson's Wall, an old drystone boundary along the edge of the moor. Eston Nab and Roseberry Topping are both local landmarks with a history of quarrying and mining. At Wilton Village, notice the striking architecture of the Old School building. It was once a base for the Countryside Wardens but is now a private residence. The 1871 bridge was constructed over the tramway a year after the nearby Guibal Fan House was built.

There are Bronze Age burial mounds on Eston Moor and in Errington Woods, along with many reminders of the area's mining history. There are also some wonderful views of the coast from several points along the top of Errington Woods. Hazel Grove was bequeathed to the people of Saltburn in 1896 by the Marquis of Zetland.
